A Short History Of The Washington House

Over two hundred years ago The Washington House was a farmhouse owned by Mr. Jenson. The property was later purchased by Samuel Sellers who enlarged the building and made it into a tavern. Henceforth, both the hotel and the town were known as "Sellers Tavern". The site became a town center, serving as the first post office, hotel and stagecoach stop for the long journey between Bethlehem and Philadelphia. It is rumored that the Liberty Bell and the men who carried it stayed here during the Revolutionary war.

In 1856, the tavern was sold to the North Pennsylvania Railroad, which added the ornate Victorian bar and distinctive cupola. The original front bar was destroyed during prohibition, and replaced with the current one when prohibition was repealed, the back bar remaining original (see photos in the bar). Because of the building's importance in the founding of Sellersville, the property is included in the Pennsylvania Inventory of Historic Homes.
